Positive Education Master Class – Learning How to Flourish and be Your Best!

Bangkok Patana School
Friday 7th November 2014
8.30am Coffee 9am - 4pm session including lunch

Positive Psychology, the science of ‘what makes life worth living’, is being increasingly applied in schools through Positive Education programs designed to develop optimal functioning, well-being and resilience in whole school communities.

Join Clive Leach for this exciting master class workshop that will help you as education professionals understand the requirements for sustained well-being & engagement. Drawing upon the fields of positive psychology and coaching psychology Clive will share the latest education-based research studies and approaches from some of the world’s leading schools and universities. He will also share some great practical ideas, interventions and tools that he has applied through his own design and delivery of Positive Education programs in schools, including Bangkok Patana, and the university sector in Australia, SE Asia and China.

This valuable and unique session will be interactive, empowering and fun. It has the potential to have a meaningful and positive impact on the personal, academic and professional success of yourselves as educators, your students and the community!

Clive Leach is an organisational coach & facilitator and a graduate of the Master of Organisational Coaching Program at the University of Sydney. He is a certified Realise2 strengths practitioner. He is an education professional and a former Head of Community Education Services in the UK.
